

Tide-Battered Cats, Nipped By Vols, Place Three On All-Conference Team

Wildcats Lose Conference Crown To Tennessee

After spending all their strength in defeating Alabama in the semi-finals, a tired Wildcat aggregation was unable to meet the exacting in the Southeastern Conference tournament finals and went at the Jefferson county armory in Louisville.

The Wildcats were unable to match the stamina of Tennessee who coasted to semi-finals victory over Florida. Tennessee rolled up an early advantage to lead by 19-11 at halftime.

Early in the second stanza Kentucky cut the lead to four points but Tennessee gathered momentum and pushed their margin to ten points with five minutes left to play. Exhausted but desperate, Lee Huber swished three goals through the hoop and Staker and Allen each added one to shave the lead to two points with one minute and 15 seconds left.

Vols Freeze Ball
Tennessee, however, managed to freeze the ball and also Kentucky's chances for a victory. Huber stole the ball once but lost it in route to the tying bucket.

The Wildcats made one more field goal than did the men of Orange, but the Vols dropped in ten free throws in 14 attempts, while the Cats could only convert six out of 11.

Akers, Huber Stand Out
Marvin Akers and Lee Huber were the best for Kentucky throughout the tournament. Akers' amazing long shots kept the crowd roaring, while Huber's defensive work outshone all the others.

But to any list of stars in the tournament must be added the name of Jim King. His aggressiveness and fine guarding pulled the Wildcats out of many tough holes and when his team needed a basket, King usually added one. Eral Allen, too, evoked words of praise for his aggressiveness and fine spirit.

Officiating Below Standard
The loss of the crown was due mainly to a hard game Kentucky was forced to play against Alabama and the Wildcats' impotency at the free throw line. In addition to this, the officiating could not be considered up to tournament standards. Another factor was the failure of most of Kentucky's shots to stay in the basket, most of them rolling around the rim and spinning out.

In the semi-finals encounter Saturday afternoon the Wildcats snatched victory from under the nose of the Crimson Tide, winning in the last few seconds, 39-37. Alabama took a commanding lead.

CATFISH WIN OVER BEREAS

Kentucky Paced By Hillenmeyer

Kentucky's splashing Wildcatfish won their fourth victory in seven starts last night when they swam their way to a 45-29 win over the Berea Mountaineers in the Berea pool.

In conquering the Bereas, the Catfish were victorious in 7 out of 8 events. They took first place in all but the 220 and 440 yard dashes.

High point man for the Kentuckians was Hillenmeyer, who gained a victory in the 100-yard dash and swam on the winning relay teams.

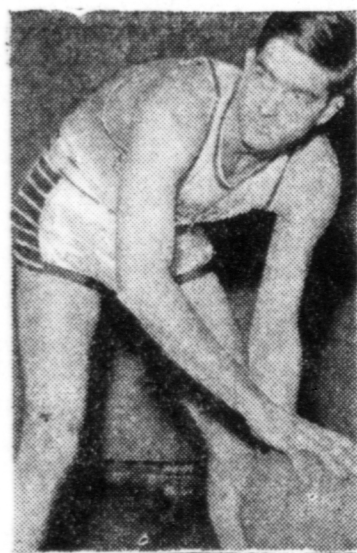

Letelle Stephenson was the winner of the diving contest for his seventh straight victory in this event.

Rector To Speak On Cancer Control

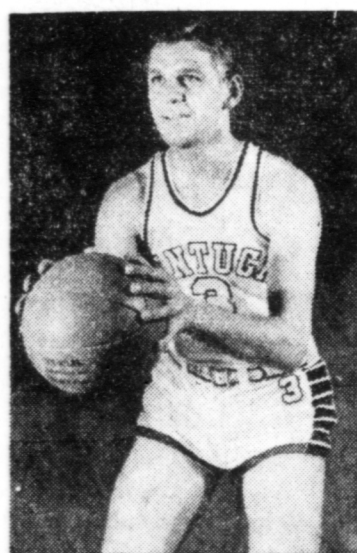

Dr. S. L. Rector of New York city, a representative of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, will deliver two addresses on "The Symptoms and Control of Cancer" Thursday, on the University campus.

At 7 p.m. Dr. Rector will address residents of the Women's hall in the Patterson recreational hall. Preceding his talk, he will be guest at a dinner in Patterson hall. Other special guests will be Dr. and Mrs. Frank L. McVey, Dr. and Mrs. Wolk Barrow, Dr. and Mrs. John S. Chambers, Dr. and Mrs. Morris Scherago, and Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Weaver.

Dr. Rector will speak at a joint meeting of the Bacteriology and Pryor Pre-medical societies at 7:30 p.m. in room 200 of the Biological Sciences building.

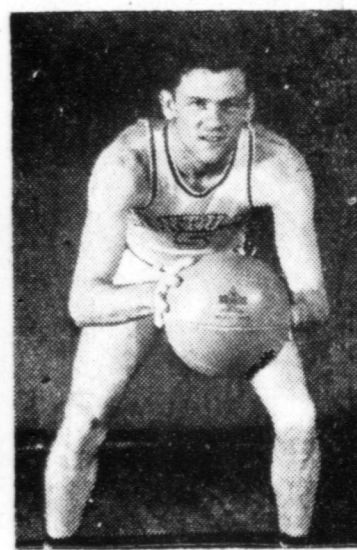

MARVIN AKERS

CAPT. LEE HUBER

KEITH FARNSELEY

JIM KING

Although they did not bring home the championship, each of four Wildcats played such sparkling ball that they merited places on all-conference teams. Huber, Akers, and King made the tournament and AP teams and Farnsley clinched a berth among the AP selections.

FACULTY GROUP HEARS REPORT

Kuiper Reviews Council's Findings

Report on factors which make for effective and ineffective teachers, and what characteristics should be considered in selecting a new faculty member, based on a survey of the Association of American Colleges, highlighted the arts and sciences faculty meeting yesterday.

Dr. John Kuiper, head of the philosophy department, prepared the report from statistics compiled in the AAC's "The Effective and Ineffective College Teachers," and read the review to the faculty.

The book, Dr. Kuiper said, was the culmination of lengthy survey work, in which detailed questionnaires were sent to administrators of 406 national universities, and teachers and normal schools, with the purpose of sampling opinion of college administrators toward effective and ineffective instructors. Seven of the 408 schools were Kentucky institutions.

Colleges Differ
In the report, Dr. Kuiper discussed at length traits and qualifications which college officials seek to observe or avoid when selecting a new instructor, and revealed difference of opinion concerning selection between arts colleges and teachers colleges. Questions relating to improvement of inefficient instructors and maintenance of teaching efficiency, were discussed.

Among the traits which identified a good instructor were inspirational power, wholesome influence on student morale, carefully planned classwork, and sympathetic attitude toward students. Qualities of poor teachers were laziness, staidness, fossilized, self-centered, lack of proper background, poor temperament, crabbiness, cranky, lack of mental inertia, inexperience, and professional jealousies.

Several course changes were approved. Prof. W. S. Webb obtained consent of the faculty to revise several physics courses to comply with the request of the College of Engineering to expand the sophomore physics curriculum to 12 credits. The geology department secured permission to drop several geology courses and add new ones as substitutes.

Bart N. Peak, YMCA secretary, spoke briefly at the beginning of the session in which he emphasized the purpose and intent of "Religious Emphasis Week," being observed on the campus this week.

Orchestra Lauded For Rendition Of Symphony

By ROBERT MILES

Presenting the most popular orchestral piece of its length in the world, the University Philharmonic Orchestra, under the direction of Professor Carl Lampert played Beethoven's "Symphony No. 5 in C Minor" for its second concert of the season on Sunday afternoon in Memorial Hall.

The performance was the first presentation of a complete symphony in the history of the University music department. Such a composition is certainly a commendable undertaking for an amateur musical organization.

The first movement of the symphony is characterized by clarity, directness, and vigorous animation. The orchestra expressed forcefully the strong and pulsing rhythm of this section. Expressive shading also contributed to the musical effect.

The second movement is comprised of a noble theme with simple eloquent variations. The proper phrasing and desirable tonal qualities were realized by the brass and woodwind sections of the orchestra.

In the third movement, the mysterious themes and powerful fugal passages were well executed by the cellos and violas. A long development passage led to the final movement, which is one of elemental, climactic force. In this section the orchestra expressed the universal spirit of the composition.

The only other composition on the program was the sacred and stately "Procession of the Grail" from "Parsifal" by Richard Wagner. The mysterious contrapuntal weavings of the work were well done by each section of the ensemble.

As an encore the orchestra played the gay waltz "Voices of Spring" by Johann Strauss. Following the concert a reception was held at the music department.

Influenza Vaccine Will Be Available

Flu vaccine may be obtained from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Thursday at the dispensary, Dr. J. S. Chambers, head physician announced yesterday.

Because the vaccine comes in 50-dose bottles and is effective for only 6 hours after being opened, the shots are being offered only one day. If the number of persons taking the shots is encouraging the vaccine will be offered another day, Doctor Chambers said.

Huber, Akers, King Get Berths On All-Tourney Five

Three Wildcat players were accorded positions on the official all-tournament team picked by sports writers and officials. They were Lee Huber, guard, Marvin Akers, regularly a guard but chosen as a forward and Jim King, center.

Akers was chosen as a forward, because the officials declared that, though the guard positions were filled, "he was too good to be left off." Akers was consistently popular with the crowd because of his spectacular long shots. Huber was selected for his sparkling defensive work and offensive ability while Jim King was liked because of his aggressiveness.

Vols Place Three
Other members of the all-conference team were Tennessee's Gil Huffman, a guard; Frank Thomas, a center; and Bernie Mehen, a forward. Alabama placed a guard, Louis Adair, and Vanderbilt contributed the sensational Pinky Lipscomb, the tournament high scorer.

In the Associated Press selections, Lee Huber and Marvin Akers were placed on the first team at guard and forward respectively. Other first team members were Thomas, Lipscomb, and Huffman.

Keith Farnsley won a forward position and Jim King a center spot on the second team, while other places went to Alabama's Louis Adair, Bernie Mehen of Tennessee, and Roy Chatham of Georgia.

BABY CHICK FAIR SET MARCH 18

Barquet To Follow Poultry Club Show

The seventh annual baby chick show, sponsored by the Poultry club, will be held Tuesday, March 18 in the Stock Judging pavilion.

Entries will be made by statewide hatcheries in the six classes, which include white and barred Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, New Hampshire, white Leghorns, and a miscellaneous class.

A banquet for the participants, Poultry club members, poultry department faculty, and judges will be held at 6:30 p.m. after the show has closed. Students may enter the chick judging contest but will not be eligible to enter chicks in the main show.

Floyd Heid, Lexington, is chairman of the show, and Harry Lindenberg, Henderson, is secretary. Judges will be Prof. C. S. Price, head of the poultry department of Berea; E. A. Baue and Cecil Hinton, Kentucky Poultry Improvement association; and J. E. Humphrey and Stanley Caton, extension department.

Ag Speech Class Will Meet Tonight

The self-expression class of the agriculture college will meet at 7 o'clock tonight in Room 205 of the Agriculture building.

This non-credit course, designed to aid students in learning how to express themselves better both in written and spoken work, stresses sentence structure, word variety, and poise in facing an audience.

Concrete-Filled Cannon Once Laid In City Dump

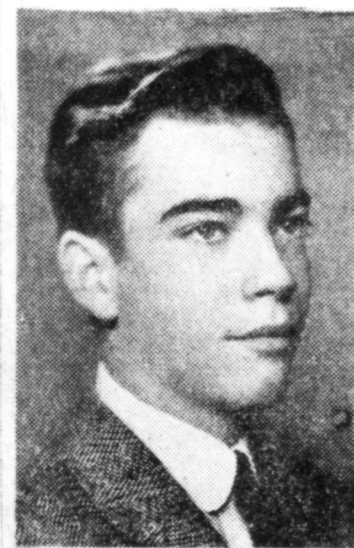

There's at least one cannon in the United States that is in no danger of being appropriated by the army for national defense. Slightly obsolete—dating back to the 18 something—and filled with concrete, it's nothing more today than a historical hatrack for drilling ROTC cadets.

Standing in front of the administration building facing Limestone, the old Spanish-American cannon is probably the University's oldest landmark—it was here even before Kelley the Cop.

Little is known of its early history other than that it was captured from Spain by the United States at the battle of Santiago in the Spanish American war, and was brought to the United States as spoils of war. In 1900 the war department turned it over to the state of Kentucky.

Hillenmeyer Named Business Manager

Courtesy Lalalette

Bob Hillenmeyer, commerce sophomore of Lexington, was elected by the Board of Student Publications, Friday, to succeed Charles Smith as business manager of The Kernel.

Smith resigned two weeks ago to enter the army air corps, and said yesterday he had received no official notice when to begin training. He said he would probably be sent to Parks Air school, St. Louis, Mo., for flight training.

Hillenmeyer has been connected with The Kernel business staff for two years, being advertising manager previous to his election as business manager.

BALLET GROUP WILL PERFORM

WAA To Present Dance Recital

Billed as "America's outstanding dance attraction," Grace and Kurt Graff will present their ballet at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, March 13, in the Henry Clay high school auditorium, under the auspices of the University Women's Athletic association.

Grace and Kurt Graff, directors and solo dancers of the group, appeared as the feature dancers in "As Thousands Cheer" in a coast-to-coast tour. The Graffs and their company of nine dancers were hailed in the east on their first American tour for the humor and originality of their ballets.

Tickets for the ballet may be purchased at the women's gymnasium from Miss Margaret Warren, WAA faculty adviser, council members, and the modern dance group.

Members of the WAA Council are Lida Belle, Doris Reichenbach, Annette Crouch, Gladys Kilpatrick, Jean Williams, Doris Settle, Dorothy Paul, Eloise Rochester, Mabel Warnecke, Ann Hatter, Jennie Sullivan, Rita Sue Lasie, Agnes Smith, Jennie Puckett, Wilma Salmon, Jean Ewers, Frances Schreck, and Betty Bredend.

Modern dancers who will sell tickets are Martha Adams, Bernadine Aulick, Guenna Ballard, Margaret Brown, Lois Hall, Sara Estill, Mildred Gravitt, Letha Hicks, Trilby McKeehan, Mary Payne, Jane Richards, Charlotte Sale and Ethel Smith.

Sherman Places

Albert Lawrence Sherman, Law college senior from Pineville, took second place in the Kentucky Intercollegiate Oratorical association contest held Saturday at Transylvania university.

First place was won by Elmore Ryle of Eastern State Teachers college.

SOCIOLOGIST WILL LECTURE ON COURTSHIP

Sanders To Open Marriage Forum Series Thursday

Dr. Irwin T. Sanders, associate professor of sociology, will open the YW marriage forum series with a lecture discussion on "Campus Courtship" at 7:15 p.m., Thursday, in the Y lounge.

The opening forum will be devoted primarily to questions of mate selection and special problems arising out of courtship. Doctor Sanders will lecture for about 30 minutes and discussion from the floor will follow for about a half hour. The speaker will plan the forum with a student committee today in order that true campus problems may be considered.

Doctor Sanders, who came to the campus as an instructor last September, teaches a sociology course on "The Family." From 1929 to 1932 he taught English and Latin at the American College of Sofia, Sofia, Bulgaria, and a few years later served a three-year term as dean of that college. Doctor Sanders specializes in community organization work, and at present is collaborating on a book about the community and education.

Dr. Charles C. Caywood of the Fayette County health department will discuss medical aspects of marriage with men students on March 13 and with women on March 20.

Dr. Richard Weisner, director of social hygiene and health education at the Cincinnati Public Health federation, will close the series with a forum on the "Personal Aspects of Marriage" on March 27.

IRISH GRID COACH TO TUTOR HERE

Leahy Will Head Summer Staff

Frank Leahy, recently appointed head football coach at Notre Dame university, will head the staff of the annual athletic coaching school from August 11 to 16, Dr. M. E. Potter, head of the physical education department, announced yesterday.

Other members of the coaching staff will be Ab Kirwan, Kentucky's head football coach; Bernie Shively, athletic director; and Adolph Rupp, head basketball coach. Leahy, Kirwan, and Shively will be in charge of grid skills and Rupp will direct the net tutoring. High school coaches and players and University athletes will assist.

The school, started about five years ago by the physical education department, will be open to high school coaches and University students. University credit is granted for the course, which consists of lectures and demonstrations.

Leahy, who played under Knute Rockne at Notre Dame, last month succeeded Elmer Layden as grid mentor at his alma mater. Before the South Bend appointment, he coached at Boston college, producing an undefeated eleven last fall and leading his team to victory over Tennessee in this year's Sugar Bowl classic.

The three local coaches were on the summer-session tutoring staff last year. Carl Snavely, head coach at Cornell university, was the visiting mentor.

Smith To Speak At Chili Supper

Mrs. George E. Smith of the English department will speak on Mexico at a chili supper to be given by the Home Economics club at 6 p.m. Monday in the Stock Judging pavilion.

The supper, although given especially for agriculture and home economics students, will be open to the public. Dancing will follow the talk.

Tickets costing 25 cents may be purchased until noon Saturday from Janet Fergus, Sara Triplett, Marion Bradford, Margaret Stutzenberger, Dorothy Collins, Jane Hayes, Myrtle Binkley, Helen Culton, or Genevieve Gee. Tickets will also be on sale in the Home Economics and Agriculture buildings Wednesday and Thursday.

Twain's Funny, McGe

The old cannon was the butt of many practical jokes in the rah-rah era of higher education in the early years of the 20th century, when carousing collegiates thought it a dull night that passed without at least one volley being fired. If there was no gun powder around, they would dismount the cannon and roll it around on the grass.

Finally school officials thought that's enough of this foolishness and had the barrel filled with concrete. And since that day, although many have tried, no one has ever yet fired the gun.

Emphasis To Be Placed On Religion This Week

Forums, Parties Dinners Arranged By Campus YW

The emphasis this week is on religion.

All Y groups, several sororities and fraternities, and other campus organizations will discuss "The Value of Religion" during Religious Emphasis week which opened Sunday on the campus. The women's residence halls will give a dinner Wednesday night in honor of Lexington ministers who come in contact with students.

Local churches are to give parties for students Thursday night and Adith Israel Temple, Jewish synagogue, has invited all students to its regular services at 8 p. m. Friday night.

Sunday has been designated as "Go-to-Church" by the Campus Religious council, sponsor of the week. Ministers have been asked to slant their sermons for college students and chairmen have been appointed in each housing unit to encourage members to go to church.

CAA TRAINING TO BE DISCUSSED AT UNION FORUM

Searles, Donnelly, Course Instructors Will Participate

Clinton E. Searles, Columbus, Ohio, ground school supervisor of the Civil Aeronautics authority, will discuss various phases of civilian pilot training during the Union forum from 4 to 6 p.m. Wednesday, in the Music room of the Union building. It was announced yesterday.

Lieut. Col. Howard Donnelly, head of the military department and campus coordinator of CAA activities, will speak on the training program as it applies directly to the campus. Professors David Young, R. E. Shaver, and Henry B. Moore, instructors in CAA courses here, will participate in a question and answer forum following the main addresses.

The Union Forum committee has arranged the discussion on CAA to acquaint students, who are interested in taking the training during summer school or regular terms, with the program. This semester's quota already has been filled. However, it was indicated that training will be offered to more students when the new Lexington airport is completed.

After Wednesday afternoon's discussion, coffee will be served by members of the University Red Cross and Bundles for Britain committees.

LAW HONORARY TO INDUCT 19

Ritual Will Be Held At Frankfort

Breckinridge Inn of Phi Delta Phi, international legal fraternity, will induct 19 law students at its annual spring initiation at 6 p.m. Thursday in the court room of the Court of Appeals, Frankfort.

To be inducted are Henry Bramblett, William Buford, Thomas Carter, Elizabeth Gillespie, Robert Hammond, John Howe, Edwin McClelland, John McKinstry, Barbara Moore, Edwin Ockerman, Marcus Redwine, Robert Rice, Charles Shipley, Robert Spragens, Helen Stephenson, Pallard White, C. Homer Neikirk, Mary Barriekman, and Dale Booth.

Guests will include the members of the Kentucky Court of Appeals and Dr. Frank Murray Dr. F. H. Randall, Dr. Roy Moreland, and Dean Alvin Evans, of the law school faculty. Each guest will give a brief talk.

Conducting the initiation ceremony will be Bud Trent, magistrate, Paul Durbin, Eddie Jackson, Eugene Webb, and Jim Gordon.

Club Will See Film

The Dairy club will show a motion picture on "Development of Embryo and Fetus" at its meeting at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, in the Dairy building, Clifton Hardesty, president, announced.

The picture is released through the University Extension department.

Duty Extended

Lieut. Phil Lofink, of the military science department, was notified this week that he has been given extended duty at the University, effective Friday.

In commenting on the annual religious emphasis week, Acting President Thomas P. Cooper said yesterday:

"The University of Kentucky, in common with a large number of universities throughout the nation, sets aside a week upon which to place emphasis on religion. It seems to me especially worthwhile that on the campus there should be presented to us those facts and values that will bring to us again the very great importance of religion in our lives.

"Each of us finds values in the church and its teachings. I have found the teachings of the church helpful in life. Through these teachings we may establish high ideals and attempt to live up to them. All of us should take the opportunity of attending church during Religious Emphasis Week, and if this leads up to regular attendance thereafter, the week will have accomplished a part of its purpose. I commend this week to you."

Discussions Planned

The YW-YM class group programs tonight will consist of panel discussions on how religion affects college students. Why students do, do not, and should go to church will be discussed by Ann Crutcher, Walter Leet, and Gentry Shelton, of the Central Christian church.

"Can College Students' Religion Survive Campus Life?" is the subject of the Sophomore commission forum, with Bart Peak, YM secretary, and two students from each of the freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes, leading the discussion.

Speakers Announced

Speakers announced yesterday for Wednesday night sorority meetings include: Dr. Margaret Rathoff, Chi Omega; Dr. and Mrs. John Kuiper, Zeta Tau Alpha; Miss Doris Seaward, Kappa Delta; Mrs. Frank L. McVey, Delta Zeta; Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, Alpha Xi Delta; Miss Sarah Blanding, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Bigge, Alpha Gamma Delta.

Guests at the residence hall dinner, each of whom will lead a discussion of his religion with the women of that faith after the dinner, are to be Mr. and Mrs. Gentry Shelton, Rabbi and Mrs. Milton L. Grafman, Dr. and Mrs. T. C. Ecton, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Miles, Robert Scott, Robert Green and the Rev. and Mrs. John K. Johnson.

Miss Eileen Anderson, young peoples' worker of the Maxwell Presbyterian church will speak at the Dutch Lancaster club Friday.

Jeanne Lancaster, president of the religious council is head of the arrangements for the week.

Kampus Kernels

The bait and fly casting class will meet at 7 p.m. today, in the Gym annex, the physical education department announced.

The self-expression class will meet at 7 p.m. today in Room 111, McVey hall, Gordon Godbey, instructor, announced.

A meeting of the Agronomy club will be held at 7:30 p.m. today in the Agriculture building, Robert Griffith, president, announced.

The Pitkin club will meet at noon, Wednesday, in Maxwell Street Presbyterian church.

'Some Day Before I Graduate....'

WELL, I'LL BE DAMNED

By John Ed Pearce

I guess there's nothing as nauseating as a letter to the editor. I've been reading them for years, and once I even wrote one myself, but the only thing I've ever gotten out of any of them is a good heave.

Take this controversy that has been going on in The Kernel about the South. Now, if that isn't silly. Grown men, too. I see now that they've gotten down to claiming that my-family-is-better-than-yours, and why don't you go back to where you came from.

Maybe I can enlighten you about this problem. You see, my record is implacable, since I am scion of a wealthy old family of Virginia (from the picture of the same name) and naturally know all about the South.

Daown home in Vuhginny, we nevuh have fusses lahk this heah, because evuhbody gnaows the real truth about the Wah Between the States, and that settles evuhthing. We don't bothuh about ouah families, because we know that theah ain't anybody that measures up to a Vuhginnian, and that settles that.

We knawh the South won the wah, and that that damned rascal Shuhman had a helluva tahn retreatin' thru Gawgia so he could get to his boats, and we know that if it hadn't been foah that damned rascal Abe Lincoln, evuhthing would have been raht fahn afth the wah, but he let them damned old cahpetbagguhs come daown South and bah up evuhthing with that damnedyankee money.

We daown in Vuhginny don't bothuh much about issues; we just go about ouah business, beat ouah slaves, drink ouah cawn likkub, and tend to ouah smiling acuh, and ouah pretty women.

Nachully, the nawthunnuhs ah trying to staht trouble all the tahn. A losng side always does.

Of cose, theah ah a few folk that sold out to the yankees, but they wuhn't really Vuhginians, but migrated theah from the nawth.

We ah just sitting around and waitin' foah the tahn to come when the nawth stahts acting uppity again, and then we'll lick 'em again, just lahk we did the last time.

Only this time we ahnt going to give them such a lenient treaty as we did he last time, so's they can't take advantage of us being gentlemen.

There's a fight brewing in the Kernel office between Fred Hill and Don Lail. The first notice we had of this fight was a little slap that Fred took at Dum-Dum in his column, and dire mutterings by Lail, who promised, like Jack Dalton, "Stranguh, ah ain't fergettin'."

Then this week Lail comes back at Hill in palsied, but sincere form, by calling Fred a stooge of George Terrell's. I guess this puts him out in front by an insult; it isn't nice to be called a stooge. Probably a stooge of Johnny Conrad's.

Hill has the edge on Dum-Dum, tho. His columns get printed more often than do those of Lail. The editor says that Lail isn't so good, sometimes.

Reminds me of wrist-slappings that I have had over some Columns. The latest misadventure of this sort concerned Pat Doyle, who still loves me not too much because of some things I said about her in The Kernel, altho I swear all the things were nice.

Nice, at least, for Pat.

But she says that she made a C in a course because her teacher saw her name in the column and thought she was just a brainless coed.

How could he?

I know what I'd do if my teacher gave me a dressing for having my name in this column. I'd think up a slick answer, and shoot it to him. I'd say something cute, like: "You're just jealous because your name wasn't in the paper."

Nevertheless, she didn't, and she got a C, and I am sorry. It looks now that I will have to go the rest of my college career under a taint, with people pointing to me, and saying "There goes the rat that ruined our Pat."

Guess I'd better transfer. Life here will be awful.

Senator Norris and The Lease-Lend Bill

It was with a decided feeling of reassurance that we read yesterday of Senator George Norris' statement approving the Ellender amendment, which would restrict the use of American troops to the Western Hemisphere and American possessions.

Senator Norris' record is one of the greatest in the history of the United States Government. Although he voted against our entry into the First World War, he is no isolationist. He is aware, as are many other Americans, that this is not 1914, and that there are many things at stake today which were not at stake this time last year.

But he also believes—and here the overwhelming majority of America's youth seems in agreement—that sending an A. E. F. to Europe is not going to cure anything this time it didn't cure last time.

Arms and ammunition to England, yes; but troops, no.

Senator Norris has probably been right on more occasions than any one man in American history. We believe he is right again, and we believe the Senate should take his advice and add the Ellender amendment to the certain-to-pass H.R.1776.

Shall It Be the Dorseys and Goodmans—Or Second-Raters?

For years one of the chief squawks of UK students has been "other schools have big name bands to play for their dances; why can't we?" Almost any campus dance-goer can cite for you numerous cases in which schools much smaller than the University have Goodman, the Dorseys, Miller, Barnet, Krupa, etc., and almost everyone has at one time or another made some wishful proposal as to how these orchestras can be brought to the home floor. Few of them, needless to say, were very practical.

Last week the Interfraternity and Pan-hellenic councils came through with a plan that would make such dances realities with practically no effort at all—and now a large portion of the Greeks are blocking the very thing they've been crying for. The proposition is this: abolish the individual fraternity formals and have instead several cooperative dances a year—with better bands and at a much lower cost per person. Lower because the expense would be distributed over a wider base.

The plan is obviously a sound one, based on common sense. For proof, one need go no further than to look at the plain facts:

Under the current system, only those fraternities and sororities which are on a sound financial basis may give dances. Last year, because of this ruling, only one fraternity and two sororities had formals. This year there were two; next year there will be three or four at most.

Under the current system, $800 is the most any Greek organization may spend. Even the ablest financiers will never be able to get Goodman, Miller, and the Dorseys for $800.

Under the current system the members of a very few chapters pay $12 and $14 each for the formals given, and everyone else who attends pays nothing. In other words, a few (100 or 150) Greeks pay . . . and everybody plays.

To sum up: under the current system fraternity men and women are doomed to hear only second-rate bands for the rest of their school lives, a small number of Greeks are soaked unmercifully, and a handful of chapters are accorded the dubious honor of having played host to the University. It is a wasteful, inefficient, unsound system and it is high time it was done away with.

The principal objection to the proposed plan seem to arise from the larger fraternities, who claim their rights are infringed upon. Furtlier, they say, the smaller lodges would escape almost scot-free from the financial obligations of the new plan because they have smaller memberships.

However, the answers to these complaints are almost too obvious to bother with:

First of all, few rights would be taken away—the house dances, dinner dances, and tea dances would still be permitted. In fact, with the savings that would incur from the new system, even more of these lesser affairs could be held.

The second suggestion may best be answered by asking the question: under the new plan, just how much scot-freeer from expense would the small lodges be than they are today, when they pay absolutely nothing?

The Interfraternity and Pan-Hellenic councils were right in their decision last week. We hope, for the sake of future University dances and for the future of UK fraternities themselves, that these organizations will not yield to the pressure of a handful of lodges which insist upon clinging to a system whose practicality died three years ago.

A Few Questions About The New 'House Week'

Far be it from us to dump cold water on that old institution, the "college prank," but there are a few questions we'd like to ask the Interfraternity council concerning the "house weeks" now being held by several of the Greek lodges.

According to Rule Four of the code adopted by the council on October 24 last, "there shall be absolutely no public exhibitionism." Penalties for the infraction of this and other rules are clearly defined, giving one the impression that the council meant business when the code was approved.

Now what we want to know is:

1) Does the wearing of costumes constitute "public exhibitionism"?

2) If so, does the council intend to do anything about infractions of the rule?

3) If not, just what is the council's definition of the term "public exhibitionism"?

It's not that we have any intentions of "persecuting" anyone; it's just that we want to get straightened out on the matter of this "house week." From the beginning of it, it appears to us not to be very unlike the "hell week" of old, which the council wisely decided must go.

Alpha Gam house boy SAE Dick Stone continued to circulate while he unknowingly had the measles. How do you feel girls?

Jim Johnson's "What'll-I-do-now" look is the result of sparkling Sue Ewing's three-day quarantine.

Congratulations to the golden-haired AGD Barbara Rehm, the "Best Band's" new sponsor and to the boys for picking another winner.

Seen around: Heart-team diminutive Connie Richmond and Sigma Chi Bill Boston winning high score at Saturday's bridge party; ATO Tommy Ledridge dancing with pinnee France Hardwick; 3 standing Betty South throwing the "southern belle" accent on Tommy Jones; Phi Delta Dave Kinnaird replacing Bud Scott in Orel Ruth's affections;

Tri-Delt Jane Lancaster and SAE Cary Adair reviving their romance. Joe (I'm a demon at the dance. Famulano over enthusiastically teaching Puddin' Ellis, Ruth Wheat and Jeannette Graves to jitterbug; W. L. Matthews constantly entertaining Ohio Prexy Frances Hannah; ZTA Miriam Krayer dating George Crafton; and KD's Clara Ayres and Jan Ward beaming at two lads from Ohio.

Echoes from Louisville: Friday night, basketballer Waller White called heart-throb Yvonne Stein, who was seen the next day with old flame Ed Kneppfe. Bandsman Mark Cochrane and Alpha Xi Betty Jane Pugh were delayed four hours in Versailles by car trouble. Three other hand boys held up the night's performance by becoming involved in a quiz program at a movie they won $10.

Embarrassing moment of the week: Tri-Delt Julia Johnson, who was invited to the Delta Zeta house for dinner, strolled into the Zeta Tau Alpha house by mistake.

The ATO pledges tried to foil the actives' plan of road trip by locking them in their rooms early Saturday morning and taking off for Richmond. Upon their return they discovered, to their dismay, that initiation had been postponed until they could be more properly chastised.

Wise

... and otherwise

By BOB AMMONS

It's lucky the Chinese are stoic folk, because they certainly do have their troubles. It was bad enough with the Yangtze always overflowing, too many babies, plagues of locusts and Pearl Buck stories, and the Japanese dropping bombs all over the place. But now, to top it all, Mr. Wendell Willkie is thinking about making an "inspection tour" of the country.

We just hope there is no one along to take moving pictures on this trip. We saw the ones they made in England and have decided that for pure ham acting, Willkie runs second only to Alice Payne.

We are beginning to suspect The Kernel proofreaders of foul play and fifth-calumny, because every time we think up a good gag it gets mixed up somewhere along the line. That "freshman advice" we printed last time, for instance, it should have read:

Girls who no the most
Don't go the most.

Maybe Bugs Baer and Senator Soaper are slipping the typesetters and proofreaders something on the side to kill competition.

The Vikings' idea of heaven, our English professor tells us, as a place where they could fight all day and drink mead all night. This seems logical. After spending all night in their cups it's no wonder they fought all day.

Atrocity of the Week Department: If a freshman ROTC student had 13 cavities in his teeth would he qualify for the "best drilled freshman" award?

From all the dissension raised by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's stand on aid to Britain, it seems as though the lone eagle is getting the bird.

We've never seen anything charming about a charm bracelet.

Alumnus Flays Collegians For 'Dance-Mania'

To the Editor of The Kernel:

Congratulations to the Inter-frat council, which voted to eliminate fraternity formals from now on. It is the most sane and sensible action that could be taken.

Not only are such occasions expensive but they are useless and occasion a demand on the time of girls and boys that they can ill afford to spare. Of course there is a gang in the University that considers study beneath their dignity, that they are in school for fun and frolic rather than work, that deem the waste of father's and mother's money as right and proper, that social life is the one and only thing to be considered in college, etc. etc.

The can give thousands of insane reasons for pulling these dances.

Nazis Seize Their 11th Nation

WORLD'S WEEK By JIM WOOLDRIDGE

If you can intimidate your opponent into granting the first concession, further concessions should be inevitable." —Mein Kampf

This is the formula for the peaceful Nazi invasion. It worked again last Saturday when German troops rode into Bulgaria for the final step in seizure of Nazi nation No. 11. Everything happened as it had for Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Rumania—first, the woking of nerves by propaganda; then, the "war-provoking" border incidents; third, the massing of troops; and finally, the signing of a treaty and the marching of troops.

By Saturday the Nazi legions had driven their loaded trucks, squad cars, and tanks into Sofia, the capital, and Varna, the vital seaport on the Black Sea. The Germans rode over the Danube on pontoon bridges which had been prepared and tested a week before. They were directed into the heart of the nation by road signs printed in German. There was no confusion. All went as scheduled.

Around 540,000 troops led the Bulgarian invasion. Though no violence was reported, the Nazi storm troopers carried full battle packs—apparently they were aiming straight south at Greece or southwest at the Dardanelles.

Around the Dardanelles went Britain's dashing Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden last week. Eden was cheered, dined, and danced while he talked to Turkish diplomats and Turkish troops whom he termed "fellow soldiers."

But though Eden's reception was enthusiastic, there was no definite indication that Turkey would join with Britain in actively resisting the German advance into the Balkans. London merely reported that her relations with Turkey were "improved."

The British also had talks with Greece last week but there was no official report even here that Churchill was successfully lining up a bloc to face the Nazis. Rumors were that Greece had refused the help of a large British expeditionary force and would cease to fight if the Germans joined the Italians in their struggle.

The Social Whirl

On The Air

By JOHN SUTTERFIELD

Don't you shudder when you turn on your radio and hear a group of uninteresting men reading their views on a current question of the day?

Well, so did the University of Kentucky radio staff. Knowing that most all of the roundtable programs were prepared in advance, they decided to inaugurate an unrehearsed discussion period of their own. This was three and one-half years ago. Today, "Behind the Headlines" (as the program is called) is still running strong.

Up until last year "Behind the Headlines" was always conducted by a professor here on the campus. However, since September, Martin Snyder, arts and sciences junior, has been the conductor.

For twenty-nine consecutive weeks Martin has selected a timely topic and gotten outstanding men to participate in the discussion. "Behind the Headlines" is not biased. Every side of the question is equally represented.

For example, one Sunday the discussion was centered around an important international figure in politics. About three days later Martin received two letters in the same mail delivery. One stated that he had overrated this figure while the other stated that he had sadly underrated him.

Unlike most roundtable programs, "Behind the Headlines" is entirely extemporaneous. The participants arrive about fifteen minutes before the program and meet the other members; they have from 10 to 15 minutes before they are on the air and ready to discuss pro and con at the red light. They are never told what to say. Their opinions are their own. The University provides the facilities for capable men and women to come up and express their views, and help the listeners to "think."

DID YOU KNOW? "that for every hour on the air 7 hours of rehearsal time are necessary" "that Ernest Gold, whose latest song hit is "Accidently on Purpose, started his music career at the age of four and today at 19 he is one of the top flight composers of modern radio music" "that British war production is stepped up by the uses of radio music" "that when Marconi, inventor of the radio, earned his first $250,000 he went out and bought a bicycle?"

Students Offered Marine Posts
Members of the graduating class of the University who were not members of the ROTC, have been offered the opportunity of demonstrating their suitability for commissions in the Marine Corps Reserve. It was announced this week by Lieut. Col. Howard Donnelly. An officer will visit military headquarters here about March 1st to supply information concerning enlistment.

However, the class will not be formed until July 1, when the group will start training at Quantico, Va. All available vacancies in the regular Marine Corps will be filled by these Reserve officers, who after a completion of certain periods of active service, have demonstrated the greatest ability.

Appointment as second lieutenant in the marine corps entitles the officer to $125 a month salary plus living quarters, or if not provided, $40 and subsistence at $18 per month.

ALUMNUS FLAYS
getting drunk and playing hell generally in the name of the fraternity that they may later brag about what "WE" did and how "OUR" dance was more expensive, better attended and associated with more booze guzzling than any other frat's affair.

But after all, the dance was a waste of time, effort, money and morals and we are glad that the council had the nerve to put their foot down on future affairs of this kind. Of course they will be brow-beaten, cursed and condemned by the "gang" that consider these orgies as right and proper and educational rather than degenerative.

But stick to you guys, council members, and eliminate from the future picture these frat affairs that are so useless if not unfair to the student body as a whole. Perhaps when this is put into effect we will hear something from the University constructive and beneficial rather than endless reports of dances, dances, dances.

Patrons of the University will be pleased to note such a change.

(Signed)
An Alumnus.

We believe that if "Alumnus" would take the trouble to return to the campus some weekend he would find dance-going collegians these days a pretty sober, dignified lot. Fraternity formals are now few and far between, democratic "four-bit hops" having taken their place for the most part.

There is a good deal less drinking in evidence than there was four years ago, and strangely enough, most of the complaints we have heard about the drop in alcoholic consumption have come from old grads returning in search of parties "like we had in the old days." The majority seem to go away disappointed.—Ed.

Ten Gridders Join Practice

Spring football practice gained momentum yesterday with the addition of ten varsity men in uniform for the first time this spring.

All men except Ernal Allen and Charlie Nuckols took part in the first full squad practice. Allen has been given a few days rest after his basketball chores and Nuckols is laid up with a leg injury which refuses to heal.

Lettermen who joined the squad yesterday were: Parr, Hulet, Johnson, Wood, and Beeler, linemen; Jones, Brown, Mullins, Herbert and Black, backfield.

Spring practice sessions will close April 5 with the annual Blue and White football game sponsored by the K-Club.

Intramurals

By HAROLD WINN

The league-leading Alpha Gamma Rho's ran their total to six consecutive wins in division I of the A league Thursday night as they beat an out-classed Sigma Chi team, 41-16 in intramural basketball play.

A league teams were the only ones to see action after Tuesday when a surprising Delta team took the measure of Sigma Nu to drop this pre-season favorite from the unbeaten ranks in division II.

Proving their Sigma Nu win was no fluke, the Delta team continued their winning streak by limiting the Kappa Sigs to a lone field goal as they took the big end of a 27-7 score.

Lambda Chi Alpha, only team to boast a win over the Deltas this year, had a field night as Hooper dropped in 14 points to lead them to a 35-12 win over Gamma Tau Alpha in a second division game.

The skidding Sigma Nu's managed a comeback as they eked out a scant 16-14 win from an ATO team that had lost only one game all season to their division II competitors.

The division I Triangles brought their record up to four wins against two losses as they beat a cellar-dwelling KA team, 22-16.

With Green scoring 11 points, the Phi Taus defeated the Phi Sigs, 30-21 in division II, while the SAE's were winning by the baseball score of 10-2 from the Delta Chi's in the first division.

Running Wild

By JOHN CARRICO

The man might as well be dead, who never to himself has said, "I saw Kentucky in the semi-final and final games of the Southeastern conference tournament." Because offhand, I can think of only two battles to equal them—number one being the decision Leonidas and his boys took at Thermoplae in the all-Greek tourney (a non-conference affair); and number two, the Battle of Britain which hasn't occurred yet, and thus doesn't count (ergo, our boys and Leonidas must rule the roost).

But Leonidas and his cohorts couldn't have been any more weary than the Wildcat team in their battle with the Vols. After being extended to the utmost by Alabama, the boys asked no quarter against the Vols. But in spite of their heroic struggle, Tennessee became the champ by a three-point margin. In the words of the Courier-Journal's Tommy Fitzgerald, "Tennessee took the Southeastern championship off Kentucky after Alabama had taken it out of them, disinterested observers agreed."

Tourney facts: Lee Huber was top scoring man for Kentucky with 36 points for the four contests; Keith Farnsley was next with 31. Huber committed only one foul throughout the entire tournament; he fouled Junie Hovius of Mississippi with two minutes remaining in the first half of the opening game. Shag Hawkins, the Big 12's leading scorer, came all the way from Auburn, Ala., to play 18 minutes and fail to score a basket. The tourney grossed $7,000 practically assuring a return engagement at Louisville.

Tourney thrills: Buck Craig's single-handed attempt to oust Tennessee in the first round. Kentucky's successful drive against Alabama to gain the finals berth. Mississippi's obstinacy before succumbing to the Wildcats. Georgia's late rally that almost spelled doom for the Vols. Keith Farnsley's crip with less than a minute left which tied the score with Alabama, 37-37, followed by Lee Huber's sinker which eliminated the Crimson Tide. Marvin Akers' long shots which earned him an all conference position. The hearts that broke when, the closing seconds of the Vol fray, Lee Huber stole the ball and seemed headed for the tying bucket, only to lose it on the way.

Battered Cats

which Kentucky was barely able to equal at halftime, 16-16.

Huber Clinches Game

In the second canto the lead sawed back and forth with neither team being able to pull away. With three minutes left, the Tide led the Wildcats 35-33. The Cats tied it up on Huber's long shot. Bob Roth added one for the Tide which Keith Farnsley matched with a crip. With less than 40 seconds left, Lee Huber dunked one to clinch the victory, in spite of Leeth's attempt to push the ball out of the basket.

Kentucky defeated Tulane and Ole Miss to gain the final round. The Cats experienced a little difficulty in defeating Hovius & Co. Thursday night but Marvin Akers' long shots gave the Blue men the nod 62-52.

Tulane Easy

Tulane's Green Wave was little more than a dribble as Jim King and Keith Farnsley together threw in 29 points to give the Wildcats a 59-30 win Friday night. Kentucky led the Greenies 32-15 at halftime. Tennessee almost faltered in the opening round when Mississippi State's Buck Craig sparked a rally that fell short and the Vols won 35-29. In the quarter-finals Tennessee barely escaped again when a late Georgia spurt failed to overcome an early Vol lead and the Tennesseans scored, 41-39.

The Vols easily erased an important Florida team in the semi-finals 47-26. The Vols pulled away to a lead which Florida never eclipsed. Coach Johnny Mauer used his reserves freely in the second half, saving his regulars for the Kentucky combat.

Corps Area Record Set By Riflemen

The University ROTC rifle team bettered last year's winning record of Ohio State by 13 points as it concluded firing with a total of 7621 points for the last two months in Fifth corps area competition. Lieut. John L. Carter, coach, announced.

The team fired a total of 1974 points in the final of four stages. Mitchell led the UK marksmen with a 200, followed by Brown, 199; H. Graviss, 199; Blythe, 198; Prewitt, 197; Woolum, 197; Hays, 197; Davis, 196; Wilson, 195; Peamster, 195; Prather, 194; Peyton, 194; R. Graviss, 192; Seay 191; and Maxedon, 191.

Server Named President

Mrs. Alberta Server, assistant professor of romance languages, was elected president of the Woman's club of Central Kentucky at the regular weekly meeting of the club Saturday. Miss Chloe Gifford is the retiring president.

BABY CATFISH LOSE IN SOUTH

Schwartz Cracks Backstroke Record

Kentucky's Baby Catfish were defeated Friday night, 42-24, by Castle Heights Military academy swimming team at Lebanon, Tenn. Martin Schwartz, Kentucky swimmer, broke the 100-yard backstroke pool record by slicing three seconds off the Academy mark.

The freshman team, unrecognized by the athletic department, stayed on even terms with the Tennessee prep school champs until the last two events when Castle Heights boys, who haven't been beaten for two years, forged ahead to win the meet.

Kentucky took three first places while the Tennesseans, led by Towar, were annexing five winners. In addition to his backstroke win, Schwartz took the 100-yard breaststroke event and Gregory garnered the diving event for Kentucky.

Kentucky's varsity and freshmen swimmers will leave the latter part of the week for a trip to the Midwest, where they will meet DePaul university, March 7, and Loyola of Chicago the following day in dual engagements.

The summary of the Castle Heights meet:

150-yard medley relay — Castle Heights, Towar, Smith, and R. Stetson. Time—1:28.8.

220-yard free style—Tower (C.H.), Floyd (C.H.), Neal (Ky.) Time 2:28.9.

50-yard free style—McFadden (C.H.), Padawer (Ky.), R. Stetson (C.H.) Time—2:54. New pool record.

100-yard backstroke — Schwartz (Ky.), Branch (C.H.), D. Hillenmeyer (Ky.) Time—1:13.4. New pool record.

Diving — Gregory (Ky.), Rizotti (C.H.), Mieser (C.H.).

100-yard free style—Towar (C.H.), R. Stetson (C.H.), Keplar (Ky.) Time—58.

100-yard breaststroke — Schwartz (Ky.), Wright (Ky.), W. Stetson (C.H.) Time—1:19.7.

200-yard relay — Castle Heights (Green, Daugherty, Hurt, McFadden).

Pistol Teams Will Be Formed

A meeting for the formation of ROTC and Varsity pistol teams will be held at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday in room 303, Barker hall, it was announced yesterday by Lieut. John L. Carter. Interested students are requested to attend, he added.

Vandenbosch Will Speak

"National Defense and Agriculture" will be discussed by Dr. Amry Vandenbosch, head of the political science department, in a series of addresses during the week of March 10, in Iowa.

Dr. Vandenbosch will speak before various farmers' groups during a tour of the state on behalf of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Baseball Practice Will Start Today

Horsehides will once again fill the air as the Wildcat baseball team holds their initial practice session on Stoll field this afternoon.

For the first few days Coach Frank Moseley will put the candidates through light batting practice; pitchers, however, will receive most of the attention for a week or so as the weather is too uncertain for any definite practice schedule.

BILLIARDS TEAM PREPS FOR MEET

National Tourney To Be Held Friday

Preparing for Friday's national intercollegiate tournament, the University billiards team today began strenuous practice sessions in the Union game room.

Bill Penick, Lebanon; Houston Curtis, Maysville; J. K. Thompson, Georgetown; Milt Tlico, Jenkins; and Charles Woods, Cynthiana were chosen last week as UK's team members.

Alternates picked were Ernal Allen, Morristown, Tenn.; Lloyd Thompson, Georgetown; Ailee Wilsch, Lexington; J. S. Robertson, Eminence; and Joe Dunlap, Lexington.

Around 75 students tried out for the cue team in last week's eliminations. Preston Murray, team manager, said.

In the intercollegiate tourney, each team will shoot on its home tables, and wire the scores to the University of Pennsylvania. Results of the tourney, which should start between 6 and 10 p. m. will be returned the same night.

Competition will be by standard key break shots in which each team member will attempt to make the largest consecutive number of balls. Each player will shoot five key breaks.

High team scores in each section of the nation will receive recognition by tourney officials. UK won the southern high score award in 1939 but was disqualified because its telegram was misdirected.

Individual high scorers will go to the University of Wisconsin March 22 for elimination tourney.

Dr. William S. Taylor, dean of the education college, was recently chosen as a member of the National Council on Education for a term of six years.

UK FENCERS COP THREE-WAY TILT

Cats At Top Form, Beat Cincy, Tech

Displaying their best form of the season, the University fencing team swept the triangular meet against Georgia Tech and Cincinnati last Saturday afternoon, at Alumni gym.

Georgia Tech, who lost to Kentucky by a score of 11-6, won second place honors.

Most cheering feature of the meet was the work of Johnnie Jones and Virgil Beasley who, between them, accounted for 11 victories. Jones did not fence last year and Beasley is just returning to his old form after some mediocre performances earlier this year.

Individual scorers for Kentucky were as follows: Johnnie Jones, six wins, one loss; Beasley, five wins, one loss; Holland, two wins, one loss; Carson, two wins, one tie; and Bailey, two wins. Drake and Nelson lost two matches each.

Next Saturday the UK fencers entertain the Charlestown Fencers' club in their last home meet. The Charlestown team beat the University fencers in a previous meet.

Less than 700 motor trucks were registered in the United States in 1944.

Concert To Feature Goodman Records

The recordings of Benny Goodman's new band will be featured on the third modern music concert of the semester, at 3:30 p.m. today in the Carnegie room of the Union building.

Among the selections to be included on the thirty minute program are "Benny Rides Again," "Perfidia," "Benny's Bugle," and "These Things You Left Me."
